

Checkmate New Features in 2021R7

Overview

In this update to Checkmate, we have added new columns in the Inventory tool's Find tab, that show you request data compared to your sales and your inventory. The new columns show you:

- How your sales for a part compare to requests for that part at your business
- How your sales for a part compare to requests for that part on Car-Part.com marketplaces
- How your quantity on hand for a part compares to requests for that part at your business
- How your quantity on hand for a part compares to requests for that part on Car-Part.com marketplaces

How the New Columns Help

In Checkmate's Inventory tool, on the Find tab, you are probably already used to seeing request data. This tab shows your own business requests and sales for an interchange number, plus (for Advanced Bidmate subscribers) it shows Car-Part data for local, regional, and global requests.

In this release, we're adding new columns to the Inventory tool that help you compare these pieces of data, making it easy to see how your sales and quantity on hand compare to requests at your business and on Car-Part.com marketplaces! You may find, for instance, that your region has had 200 requests for an interchange number, but you've only had 2 sales for that interchange number. You can use that information to decide price changes and more.

Request	Sales	Req2Sales	Local2Sales	Reg2Sales	Global2Sales	Req2Invent	Local2Invent	Reg2Invent	Global2Invent
0	0	0	18	168	512	0	18	168	512
5	4	1	13	115	384	5	52	459	1537
0	0	0	5	104	331	0	5	104	331

Note: You cannot edit the values in these new columns, or copy them to your clipboard.

How the Comparison Works

The data in these new columns is based on the part's interchange number; these columns will be blank on non-interchange parts.

Each of the new columns is a ratio. For example: a certain interchange number had 52 local requests on Car-Part.com for an interchange number, and 4 sales at your business. The new Local2Sales column (which compares those requests to those sales) would display 13 ($52 \div 4 = 13$).

In general, a lower number is better in these columns. (For example, if your Local2Sales column had a value of 1, then you had 1 sale for that interchange number for every local request for that interchange number on Car-Part.com marketplaces.)

Local and Regional Definitions

What counts as a local or regional request is specific to your business. When Checkmate was installed for your business, a Checkmate support representative worked with someone from your team to decide what area (e.g. a 20 mile radius) best suits your business as definition for your local and your regional area. If you are unsure whether your current local and regional definitions are right for your business, please contact your Checkmate support representative.

New Column Definitions

The following table lists the new columns that have been added*, and shows what the information in each of the new columns represents. Each piece of data for requests and sales (both Car-Part data and your business's data) is from the past year:

Column Name	Definition
Req2Sales	Requests to Sales – Compares your business's number of requests to your number of sales for that part.
Local2Sales	Local to Sales – Compares the number of local requests on Car-Part.com marketplaces with your number of sales for that part.
Reg2Sales	Regional to Sales - Compares the number of regional requests on Car-Part.com marketplaces with your number of sales for that part.
Global2Sales	Global to Sales - Compares the number of requests for a part made on Car-Part.com marketplaces with your number of sales for that part.

* The new Req2Sales and Req2Invent columns are available for anyone using the Checkmate Inventory tool. The other 6 new columns are available only to Advanced Bidmate subscribers, because they require Car-Part Request Data.

Req2Invent	Requests to Inventory – Compares your business’s number of requests with your QOH of that part.
Local2Invent	Local to Inventory - Compares the number of local requests on Car-Part.com marketplaces with your QOH of that part.
Reg2Invent	Regional to Inventory - Compares the number of regional requests on Car-Part.com marketplaces requests with your QOH of that part.
Global2Invent	Global to Inventory - Compares the number of requests made on Car-Part.com marketplaces with your QOH of that part.

Turning the New Columns On

By default, these new columns do not display in the Inventory tool’s Find tab.

To turn them on:

1. Right-click the header of any column.

2. A window appears, in which you can choose which columns display. Scroll down until you see the new columns, and check the box for each one you would like to display.
3. Click the close button to save your selections and exit this window.

4. The columns now display in the Inventory tool.
