

How to Reconnect Your Image Folder

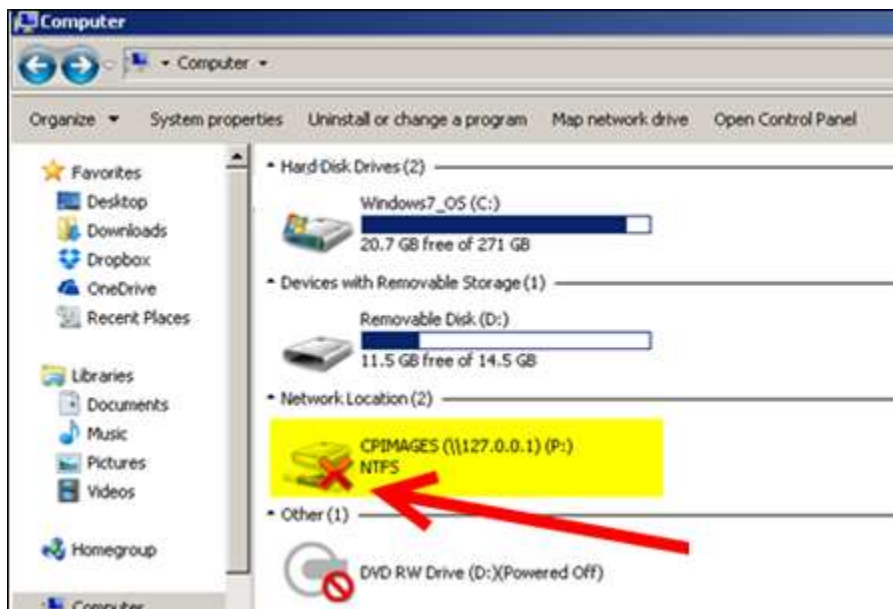

Your Checkmate images may be stored in a mapped network drive. This drive can become disconnected. In this case, your images will not be able to be transferred from Partmate or accessed in Checkmate. In this case, you must reconnect to the mapped drive.

Follow these steps to determine if your drive is disconnected, and to reconnect it if necessary:

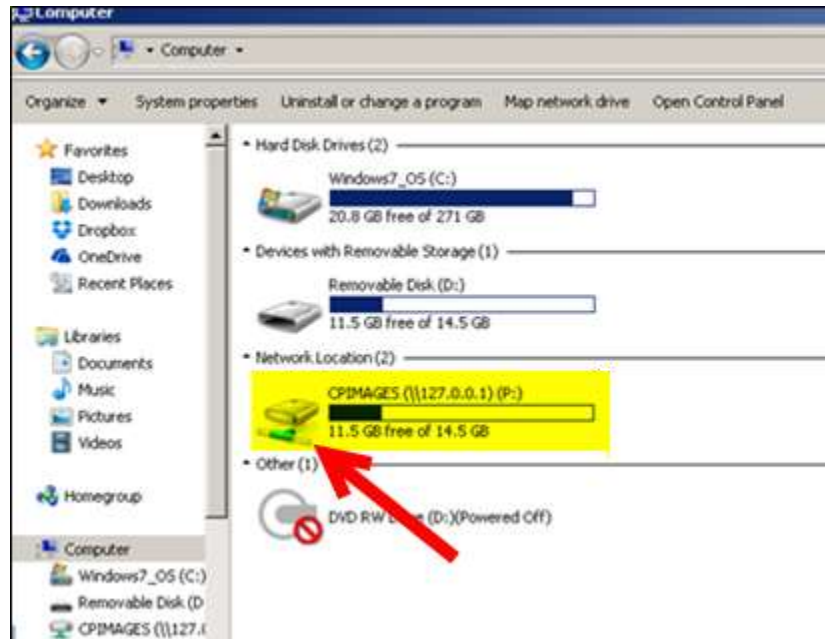

1. Open Windows Explorer. Depending on your operating system, you can open Windows Explorer with one of the following methods:
 - a. Double-click My Computer on your desktop
 - b. Double-click Computer on your desktop
 - c. Double-click This PC on your desktop
 - d. Click the folder icon on your taskbar at the bottom of the screen

2. Windows Explorer opens, and displays the drives in your system. Locate the CPIMAGES (xxx.x.x.x) (P:) drive. If there is a red X on the drive icon, this indicates that this drive is disconnected and must be reconnected. Continue with the next step.

3. Double-click on the CPIMAGES icon. The computer will attempt to automatically reconnect the mapped drive.
4. If you are prompted for a username and password, enter CACHE as both the username and password. Click to select Remember my credentials, then click OK.
5. Windows Explorer opens the CPIMAGES drive folder, and you can see all of the files within it.
6. The CPIMAGES drive icon no longer has the red X, indicating that it is now connected.
